Adapting Teaching Techniques to Learning Styles

EDWS 501-W1 (52516) Two Credit Hours

June 11-15 Mon-Thur 8:30a.m.-3:30p.m., Fri 8:00a.m.-12:30p.m.

ALT 222

Director: Dr. Margaret Stier

Guest Speaker: Julie LaMothe

Teaching students to learn according to their "Learning Styles" is often misunderstood; therefore, demystify the process by experiencing this update. Dr. Stier has toured schools using methods and materials calculated to enhance learning ability based on strengths and diversity in current Classrooms. The desirability and success of "Learning Styles in Action" will become clear as participants have a hands-on opportunity to explore the fascinating and practical Dunn Model of "Learning Styles" and Howard Gardiner's "Theory of Multiple Intelligences." Every student, young or old, is an individual with particular modality strengths; to achieve maximum learning, weaknesses as well as strengths must be understood. Using the theory of "Learning Styles" does not mean one-on-one tutoring; group-learning techniques will be experienced as participants learn about themselves and students as active learners.

Topics will include: learning style elements, construction of content area materials, analyzing participants teaching styles as well as learning styles, multisensory memorization, interpretation of student profiles, applications to homework, teaching global students, characteristics of the gifted, approaches for tactile-kinesthetic children, juggling varied learning styles, time management, understanding of mini-view of learning style research, sharing successful programs and implications for critical thinking.

Who should attend? Anyone interested in helping children from grade one through twelve, and college/adult learners.

For more information contact Dr. Stier @ 859-491-3359.

Alfred Hitchcock in Hollywood

HIST 280 (52519)/ EDWS 284 (52520)/ COMM 280-W1 (52521)

Two Credit Hours

June 11-15 Mon-Fri 4:00p.m.-9:30p.m. ALT B11

Director: Mr. Robert Cotter

This workshop will use the distinctive film career of Alfred Hitchcock to examine the relationship between a creative (and controlling) artists and the prevailing social and political preoccupations of American culture between 1939 and 1975. Several feature films and numerous film excerpts will be screened in class to develop a familiarity with the aesthetic principles as well as the personal fears and obsessions that informed Hitchcock's style, the so-called "Hitchcockian Universe." This understanding of Hitchcock's technique and psychology will allow for an analysis of his major films as reflections of the national psyche for the times in which they were made. The interplay between the Hollywood studio system and Hitchcock's career will also be explored. Above all, the course will emphasize the sheer brilliance of Hitchcock's films as both entertainment vehicles and as cultural documents.

America Through the Lens: Hollywood As Cultural Messenger

HIST 286 (52523)/ EDWS 286 (52524)/ COMM 297-W1 (52525)

Two Credit Hours

July 23-27 Mon-Fri 4:00p.m.-9:30p.m. ALT B11

Director: Mr. Robert Cotter

This course is built on the premise that every Hollywood film and television narrative, though created for reasons of entertainment and profit (and sometimes art), is in fact a cultural artifact; a representation of the values, myths, ideologies and assumptions of the culture that produced it. Delivered to us by powerful mass communication technologies, these narratives shape our collective consciousness, affirming accepted ideological and cultural beliefs/myths and, sometimes, modifying them.

Hollywood films and television programs will be analyzed in order to both identify the cultural and historical messages they contain and to determine how and why they carry these messages. To facilitate this effort, the formulas and conventions of Hollywood genres (westerns, musicals, family melodramas, film noir, horror, etc.) will be examined. This understanding of genre will serve as a primary analytical tool as we deconstruct the films and television programs studied in class.

Ancient Language in the Modern Church

CLAS 380-W1 (52527) Two Credit Hours

June 18-22 Mon-Fri 8:30a.m.-4:30p.m. ALT 222

Director: Mr. Sean Burns

The objectives of this workshop is to understand the role of the Latin language in the Roman Catholic Church and how that role has changed in recent history; to develop the tools for students to be able to use the Latin language to gain a deeper understanding of Church documents; and to look at the language of recent writings about ethical and religious issues and how it compares to the history of western thought.

This course will consist of some lecture (about the history of language in Church documents and the changes that have taken place in that regard since the Second Vatican Council, as well as information about Latin to the extent that it is necessary for the course objectives). Instruction, however, will be primarily discussion-based: looking at several church documents, flushing out the key terms (and their original representations in Latin) within the documents, and then looking at the way that term has been used throughout the history of Christianity and beyond.

Angels and Demons in Western and Near Eastern Antiquity

CLAS 255-W1 (52529) Two Credit Hours

July 23-27 Mon-Fri 9:00a.m.-4:00p.m. ALT 222

Director: Mr. David Everson

For thousands of years, people have been fascinated by the notion of heavenly messengers. In one form or another, angelic beings appear in Mesopotamian, biblical, apocryphal and classical literature. Though these various depictions are ultimately unique in their respective traditions, there are many points of contact and/or commonality between them.

This course seeks to examine the origin of angels in hoariest antiquity and trace their development on through into the medieval period. To accomplish this goal, a selection of relevant primary sources will be read in translation (i.e. the Bible, the Dead Sea Scrolls, Rabbinic Literature, etc.). These passages will then be discussed with the goal of identifying the significant angelological developments. Points of contact and/or commonality between the literatures will also be examined. Some of the themes for the course will include: the appearance of angels and demons (when did they get their wings?), the function of angels and demons, the naming of angels and demons, and the number of angels.

Black Noir: Film & Literature

ENGL 383-W1 (52531) Two Credit Hours

May 21-25 Mon-Fri 4:00p.m.-9:30p.m. ALT 303

Director: Dr. Tyrone Williams

This workshop explores the appropriation of film and literary noir techniques and themes by filmmakers and writers. The workshop focuses on two films - "Training Day" and "Deep Cover" - that explore traditional film noir characters (e.g., the detective or policeman vulnerable to corruption) and three novels - I Get Off The Bus, The Stone Virgins, and The Intuitionist - that explore traditional literary noir characters, all from within the context of African-American (and in one case, African) cultural, social and political parameters. In brief, this workshop explores the ways that some African American filmmakers and writers "sample" techniques, themes and procedures from classical noir traditions in order to comment, ironically, on certain traditions and mores that govern American society and culture.

Director: Dr. Alison Russell

This workshop offers a critical study of creative nonfiction and instruction in writing in the genre. Our analysis of forms such as the personal essay and memoir will include discussion of the ethical issues raised by this blend of factual and creative writing, but we will devote much of our time to writing practice with the building blocks of the genre: detail, description, characterization, dialogue, scene and voice. In addition to completing reading assignments and multiple daily writing exercises, students will compose and revise one developed paper during the course. All workshop participants must be willing to share their work with others. While the course will appeal to anyone who likes to write, it should be useful as well to secondary teachers interested in enriching their use of writing in the curriculum.

One textbook is required: The Truth of the Matter: Art and Craft in Creative Nonfiction (2007), by Dinty W. Moore. Students should read the first two chapters before the first meeting.

The course will educate your five senses and several others you may not have known about. Goals include developing a broader frame of reference about learning and child development, supporting learning for freedom and responsibility, and recognizing the physical/bodily expressions of who the child is.

Topics will include Rudolf Steiner's twelve senses, Sensory Integration, creating safety and acceptance – essentials for learning; a less pathologizing approach to children's DSM-IV diagnoses, spectrum disorders, attachment issues and important under-noticed effects of trauma as learning difficulty.

Ed Gutfreund and guest master teacher Eileen Frechette will guide participants using observation exercises, case study and discussion, self-study of professional relationship, artistic activities and practical processes for everyday use at school. Hollywood: A Social & Cultural History of American Movies

HIST 285 (52552)/ COMM 197-W1 (52553) Two Credit Hours
May 14-18 Mon-Fri 4:30p.m.-9:30p.m. ALT B11
Directors: Dr. John Fairfield & Mr. Bob Cotter

Hollywood has always taken historical themes for some of its most ambitious projects, a trend that has become even more pronounced in the past decade. What has not always been understood is that Hollywood and the development of the American movie industry has been a central element in the social and cultural history of 20th century America. Thus this workshop has two purposes: to critically examine various film images of American history and, equally important, to place Hollywood and its products in the larger context of 20th century American history.

The workshop will include the screening of five (5) major films and clips from many others. Robert Sklar's Movie Made America will serve as the primary historical text. Guest speakers will focus on specific cinematographic and historical aspects of American filmmaking. The workshop should be particularly useful for secondary teachers interested in enriching and broadening their use of film in the curriculum.

Jesus in Film and Theology

THEO 332-W1 (52567) Three Credit Hours
May 14-25 Mon-Fri 1:00p.m.-4:45p.m. ALT 313
Director: Dr. Edward Hahnenberg

From the earliest silent movies to Jesus Christ, Superstar, from Monty Python's Life of Brian to Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ, the Jesus story has inspired filmmakers and captivated audiences — evoking both faith and controversy. This course will explore several films about Jesus and numerous clips of movies that depict Christ-like figures. By bringing these films into dialogue with the New Testament, classic Christian doctrines, and the insights of contemporary theologians, students will assess the theological assumptions and implications of these cinematic portrayals (What does the film tell us about Jesus?).

Students will also learn to analyze these films in light of the cultural, social, and religious worlds in which they were created (What does the film tell us about those who made it and those who watch it?). Students should read the entire Gospel of Matthew before the first class. Satisfies core requirements.

Director: Dr. David Mengel

Knights in shining armor, bow-wielding vigilantes in green tights and a cart-pushing cretin admonishing his neighbors to "bring out your dead"—all these well-known images come to us from films, the primary means by which most of us encounter medieval history. The Middle Ages seem to us at once terribly romantic (think of chivalrous knights) and horribly uncivilized (thin of "medieval" table manners).

This class will explore modern popular imaginings of the Middle Ages through film. We will view several feature-length films and numerous clips, interspersed with readings from and about the Middle Ages. Our aim will be to evaluate historical films critically without sacrificing our enjoyment of them. Films will range from Monte Python's "Holy Grail" to "The Seventh Seal" and "The Kingdom of Heaven." Themes will include King Arthur, Robin Hood, the Crusades, the Black Death and of Joan of Arc. Some reading will need to be completed before the course begins.

EDWS 504-W1 (52581) Two Credit Hours

July 27-28 & Aug 3-4 Fri-Sat 8:30a.m.-4:30p.m. HAI 3

Director: Mr. Ed Gutfreund, M.Ed., P.C., L.M.T. M.Div.

When working in therapeutic alliance do you notice your shifts—here to somewhere else, engaged to distracted, present...absent and back? Presence is a key component of fulfilling, alive and vital relationship with self, others and the world. Presence is a capacity for being awake and aware within one's experience, and is essential in all effective service activities. It delivers and activates the power of all approaches to counseling and education.

This course will deeply examine styles of presence, styles of therapeutic relationship, especially the classic and demanding notions of empathy and congruence as ways of attaining more powerful connection with oneself and clients or students. The work of Martha Stark that examines three therapeutic models: offering insight, providing corrective experience, being an authentic subject will also be explored. Guest therapist Mark Davis will provide resources from his years of working to understand meditative practice and its application to life work.

Participants will be invited into exercises in stillness, in action, and in relationship that are immediately applicable to clinical work. Diverse learning processes will support personal and professional learning. More information on content and students' responses are available at www.edgutfreund.com or at 513-319-4432.

During the Progressive era and the intervention into World War I, the United States grappled with the challenges of the emerging corporate order and national security state. The debates of the period, while familiar in some ways, reflect different assumptions than those that now dominate our thinking. This workshop combines readings, lectures, and film to reconsider those forgotten debates. Topics will include: corporate power and federal response; industrial democracy vs. industrial discipline; the effort to create an active citizenry and an expanded public realm; the leisure question and the rise of a consumer culture; the undemocratic impact of the war to make the world safe for democracy.

How easy it is for your well-spring to become exhausted by the world and have no sweet water left for yourself. Most of us are so engaged by life that we have precious little time to nurture, heal ourselves and experience our own joy. Come and reclaim your joy by experiencing your own creativity. Simply dealing with life in a more effective, inventive and fulfilling manner is living the creative process. Creative experience excites people and gives them a sense of their own power. We will explore the four directions of the medicine wheel, guided meditation, shamanic journeying, nature mandalas, drumming, fire ceremony and walking the labyrinth. Most of all, we will do this in tune with one another, in mutual support, holistically, finding and basking in our harmony, balance and centeredness away from our more structured selves. This workshop will meet at Xavier, Cohen Center room 128 on June 22 and at Dr. Proffitt's home on June 23 & 24. Fire ceremony and dinner at Grailville June 23.

Director: Mr. Ed Gutfreund, M.Ed., P.C., L.M.T. M.Div.

Is everyone overwhelmed? The impact of trauma on individuals has increased and is frequently noticed. Accidents, surgeries, torture, witnessing violence, as well as neglect and abuse are all traumas. Besides PTSD therapists find relationships between trauma and DSM-IV diagnoses including ADD/ADHD, Bipolar Disorder, Mood Disorders, some personality disorders as well as learning disabilities and career problems.

This course will provide information and experience to help counselors and educators recognize signs of trauma, and pursue their understanding of trauma. Dialogue with professionals working in the field of trauma will provide different ways of supporting the healing of trauma and its aftermath, and caring for one's self in the process.

Specific emphasis is given to the body because of the nervous system damage which occurs in trauma and which needs to be attended to if a thorough treatment is to be designed. These will include Sensorimotor Psychotherapy, EMDR, and Movement Therapy. Presentations, readings, video, art, movement, and reflective writing will support the learning process. A primary process will be experience and reflection. Further information about content and students' reactions is available at www.edgutfreund.com or 513-319-4432.

The Body In Mind-Body Therapy
EDWS 508-W1 (52598) Two Credit Hours
June 1-2 & 15-16 Fri-Sat 8:30a.m.-5:00p.m. HAI 3
Director: Mr. Ed Gutfreund, M.Ed., P.C., L.M.T. M.Div.

This course will introduce students to theory and principles of body psychology, and teach techniques to understand the language of the body to enhance cognitive-behavioral and other theoretical approaches in counseling as well as in education. Local guest practitioners will provide examples of their body-oriented work to familiarize students with available resources.

The non-verbal expression of the body provides essential and often overlooked information. In order to gain a comprehensive understanding and assessment of a person's experience the body's role in perception and expression deserves attention as does cognition and emotion.

Neuroscience is making it clearer that physical sensory information is a basis for consciousness. If you want to think well, or help your therapy clients think more clearly consider helping them to be more connected to their body awareness.

The course will encourage increased observation skills, practical therapy techniques, and self-awareness by using movement, artistic activity, discussion and reflective writing in an enjoyable atmosphere of exploration and discovery. Director: Mr. George Jacob and Ms. Kathy Tehrani

This lecture and inquiry-based laboratory course is designed for teachers of grades 1-8 to enhance their understanding of life science in the areas for scientific inquiry, heredity, evolution, and ecology. Content is specifically chosen in alignment with the Ohio Department of Education (ODE) academic content standards for science as adopted in 2002 and amended in 2006. Labs are designed to be used by teachers in their own classrooms. The goal is to provide teachers with the tools to guide their own students in the process of scientific inquiry, using the scientific method to make observations, ask questions and design experiments to answer those questions. We will address how the various labs may satisfy ODE science content benchmarks and grade level indicators of heredity, the diversity and interdependence of life, evolutionary theory, and doing scientific inquiry.

In collaboration with Xavier's administrative offices and academic departments, ITS offers strategic direction and leadership to help faculty integrate new and traditional information tools into academic programs and courses. The primary objective is to create student-centered learning opportunities that engage the students as active participants in the learning process.

Technology resources and services provided by ITS include distributed classroom support, open labs and interactive classrooms, instructional design and courseware development, technology integration assistance, the development of online and distance-learning environments, customized training resources for faculty and tutorial assistance for students. ITS is located in the basement of Alter Hall. Visit www.xavier.edu/its for additional information on these services.

■ Dining Service

During the summer, Xavier's main dining facility is the retail food court operation located in the Gallagher Student Center. In addition, the James Hoff Dining Hall is used primarily for conference groups and summer camps. However, anyone may purchase the cafeteria-style meals on a pay-as-you-go basis when this facility is in operation. The James Hoff Dining Hall is located in the Cintas Center. For more information about dining service or the hours of operation, call 513 745-4874.

■ ALL Card (Student ID)

The student identification card, ALL Card, is required for all full-time and part-time students. The card is the official University identification and must be in your possession while on campus. The card services include access to MYXU campus portal, the library resources (both on and off campus), purchase of athletic and special event tickets, and facilities access.

In addition to serving as your identification card for easy access to campus facilities and programs, the ALL Card is used as cash to pay for on-campus services such as bookstore purchases, food services, copying, library fees, post office, Xavier Document Center, all vending machines. The ALL Card technology even includes the student's ability to integrate US Bank's complete banking as well as Internet banking services with Xavier's financial services program. The system eliminates issues related to multiple cards for campus access and funds management. Convenience, simplicity and security. Questions regarding ALL Card services should be referred to the assistant director of auxiliary services and support at 513 745-3675.

■ Library Services

The University library provides facilities, resources and services to support the teaching and learning mission of Xavier University. Located on the academic mall, the library contains reference, audiovisual, music, browsing, microform and special collections, as well as, periodicals, archives and the Lodge curriculum resource center. In addition to the various collections, this facility provides study, lounge, conference and instruction space. It houses photocopy and multimedia equipment and computer workstations. For current members of the Xavier community, the library provides on-site and off-campus access to XPLORE, the library's online catalog, more than 250 research databases, more than 25,000 electronic journals and access to the World Wide Web. The library's resources and services are further enhanced by participation in three consortia: the Association of Jesuit Colleges and Universities (AJCU), the Greater Cincinnati Library Consortium (GCLC) and the Ohio Library Information Network (OhioLINK).
